Earthurn Unity, Purity & Simplicity

The Earthurn collection features a unique assortment of sustainably crafted, handmade paper urns. The durable and attractive Earthurns are produced from the bark of the mulberry tree, using an ancient technique that allows the bark to be harvested without destroying the tree. The resulting paper is dried in the sun before being used to create the urns.

The oval Purity urn has violet and yellow flower petals inlaid in the paper and is suitable for scattering or biodegradable burial.

The Genus™

Pondering what to do for his final year project, an idea struck Sam Graham, then a 20 year-old student of Product Design.

'My grandfather died when I was a child and my mum and aunty decided to have a memorial tree planted in a London park. His cremated ashes fed the soil and gave life to something enduring. My mum didn't want me to go to his funeral for fear it would be too upsetting, so the tree became very significant for me.'

Years' later Sam's nan died and, again, the family chose to plant her ashes with a memorial tree. 'It was a beautiful setting', says Sam, 'and a special place to visit, but getting the family together and making the journey wasn't always easy and I felt I wanted more of a connection'. That's when Sam hit upon the simple but clever idea of replicating the tree in the park; instead the tree was at home and the tree was portable. The bonsai urn was born.

A small vial filled with some of the cremated ashes sits inside the soil of a bonsai tree inside a beautiful urn. Over time the vial biodegrades and the ashes feed the tree, once again creating new life from old.

ToLad - Scattering of Ashes

After the cremation, what do families plan to do with their loved one's ashes? Scattering the ashes is an option, but how do they arrange it, and where do they do it? The TOLAD offers an answer to the first question. With the TOLAD (the Totem Of Life and Death), scattering ashes takes on a whole new significance.

Dignified farewell - one step at a time

The bereaved can plan their walk with the TOLAD at any time and place of their choosing. For instance, they could opt for a route that brings back memories of the deceased. A memorable route adds extra significance. The ToLad passes from person to person throughout the walk, giving everyone a chance to share stories, thoughts and memories with each step.

The top can be filled with ashes, which is then scattered gradually over the walk. A small amount of ashes is scattered with each press of the pole, each step of the way, making it lighter and easier for children to take part.

The TOLAD comes in three different subtle designs, each printed in high quality. The laminated finish ensures the walk can take place under any weather condition.

The place the bereaved go on their last walk should never be forgotten. That's why we offer the free TOLAD app for smartphones; an ideal way to track your route. The route is then stored online in a personal, private Remembrance Page that you can share with anyone you choose. The bereaved, even those who couldn't be present with the walk itself can visit the page to trace the route the family took and reminisce about their loved one.
